THE BROOKLINE BIRD CLUB, INC.

There are now more than 1100 members in the Brookline Bird Club (BBC). Membership is open to all who are interested in birds and nature. A membership form can be found at the end of the bulletin. Whether you are a member or not, you are invited to participate in our activities. All trips listed in this bulletin are free of charge, though some trips may specify costs for travel or admission.

The BBC stresses the importance of good public relations. When attending trips, you should park your vehicle off the road, away from driveways and posted areas, so that traffic can flow unimpeded. Respect special guidelines at birding locations such as cemeteries and national wildlife refuges. Most important, do not enter private property unless you have permission. For a refresher on responsible birding, see the BBC Code of Ethics posted on our website and published yearly in the spring bulletin.

Should weather conditions appear bad and driving hazardous, contact the leader, at whose discretion the trip may be postponed or canceled. Also, check MASSBIRD for trip updates.

Bring a lunch on all-day trips. Inform the leader if you need to leave early. Try to carpool whenever possible, not only to save costs and fuel, but also so that the leader can take everyone to limited-access places.

CLUB STATISTICIAN WANTED

After many years of dedicated service and hard work, Bob Stymeist is stepping down as club statistician. The statistician collects field reports from all BBC-led trips during the year. He or she also receives year totals from birders and writes an annual summary report for the bulletin and web site. If you are good with recordkeeping and interested in the position, please contact Bob at rstymeist@verizon.net.

NOTES TO LEADERS

If you cannot lead a scheduled trip, you are responsible for finding a substitute leader. If you must cancel due to bad weather or other emergency, use the BBC Email Hotline and MASSBIRD to get the word out. Reports are very important to the BBC. Leaders are sent in advance a copy of the Massachusetts checklist, which should be filled out as soon as possible and forwarded to the club statistician (see the first page for contact information).

If a leader records either a "write-in" or rarity on the Mass. Checklist (e.g., Sedge Wren, Barn Owl, Western Kingbird) he or she should call Bill Drummond at (978) 975-1167, Steve Grinley at Bird Watcher's Supply and Gift in Newburyport, (978) 462-0775, and Massachusetts Audubon Society (MAS) at (781) 259-2150. MAS can be phoned at any time.

INFORMATION & RESOURCES

- Massachusetts Voice of Audubon: call (781) 259-8805 to hear a report on Eastern MA, Western MA, Nantucket, and Cape Cod bird sightings. Use the same number to report sightings for all but Eastern MA. To report Eastern MA sightings, phone Wildlife Information Line at (781) 259-2150.
- BBC Rare Bird Email Hotline: contact Barbara Volkle at barb620@theworld.com for details.
- MASSBIRD email list: see www.massbird.org for details on how to subscribe and how to view message archives.
- BBC Website: www.brooklinebirdclub.org
Webmaster: Jason Forbes, jason@brewsterslinnet.com
- Family Radio Service (FRS) radios: the BBC has adopted the American Birding Association standard channel 11/22. See www.americanbirding.org for more information.
- Massbird.org: for sightings, links to local bird clubs, and general information visit www.massbird.org

For general birding tips and information, call Bill Drummond at (978) 975-1167.

Young Birder Scholarship Update

Aidan Pavao, recipient of the BBC's first annual Young Birder's Scholarship, reports that he had a wonderful time at National Audubon's Hog Island camp in Maine and especially appreciated the "immersive experience in which [he] lived with people who dedicate their whole lives to birds." Aidan will appear at a future club meeting to present a report on his week at Hog Island.

The club will offer two scholarships for 2016. Visit www.brooklinebirdclub.org for the application form, instructions, and deadline. Thanks to the many members whose generous donations support these scholarships. To donate, you can go to the web site, click on the "Join" link on top, and enter an amount under "optional donation for BBC scholarship."

Watch the BBC website for information on the winter meeting!

What Is Birding 101?

Trips designated Birding 101 are geared especially to beginning or young birders. The leader will focus on the basics of birding such as field marks, how to describe a bird's location, and ID tips. These trips are open to all, but are ideal if you are a beginner or have a nonbirding friend who might like to come along and see what it's all about. That's how most of us got started! Look for these trips in future bulletins as well. If you have a suggestion for a good spot for a beginners' walk, please contact the field trip coordinator.

BBC Book Fund: Recipients and Donations

The BBC, through the book fund program of the club's Conservation and Education Committee, has recently purchased and donated books about birds and nature to Kestrel Educational Adventures on Cape Ann and the Murkland Elementary School in Lowell. The book fund was established to promote bird and nature education for K-12 students. Kestrel Educational Adventures, annually serving over a thousand students in Essex County, provides students with "child-centered, inquiry-based explorations of the wild places in their own towns," including an Osprey program in conjunction with the Essex County Greenbelt Association. Students at the Murkland School visit the Assabet River NWR as part of the Urban Education program, designed to "bring awareness and knowledge of the natural world to children who do not have access to a protected natural environment." Students study mist-nest-ed birds, birds' nests, and the behavior of Great Blue Herons. Education is a vital part of the club's mission, and the BBC is proud to support the fine work of Kestrel Educational Adventures and the Urban Education program.

The book fund comes from member donations. Thanks to all club members who have contributed thus far. If you wish to donate, you can designate an amount on the "BBC School Book Fund" line on the back page of the club bulletin when you renew your membership or, especially for life members, at any time that you might wish to donate.

If you know of specific teachers or schools who might be suitable recipients for the fund, please contact John Nelson or Dave Williams:

SUPPORT WILDLIFE CONSERVATION AT TAX TIME

For over 25 years, the Natural Heritage and Endangered Species Program (NHESP) has been responsible for conserving and protecting hundreds of species that are not hunted, fished, trapped, or commercially harvested in the state. Its highest priority is protecting the 442 species of animals and native plants that are officially listed as Endangered, Threatened or of Special Concern in Massachusetts. But in 2004, the program was removed from the state's operating budget, leaving it to be funded by project-specific bond monies, fees, federal grants, voluntary contributions — and your voluntary donations on state income tax forms. Help support the NHESP and its work in natural community protection, rare species research, and restoration. Consider making a voluntary contribution to 'Endangered Wildlife Conserv.' on your state income tax form. See the NHESP website <http://www.mass.gov/eea/agencies/dfg/dfw/natural-heritage/> for more information.

SUPPORT NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGES THROUGH DUCK STAMPS, NOW AVAILABLE FROM THE BBC

You can now purchase your stamp through the BBC. We also have Brookline Bird Club Duck Stamp holders/keychains available for sale.

The current federal duck stamp costs $25 and is valid from July 2015 to June 2016. Entrance to any national wildlife refuge in the United States is free when you show your stamp. As birders, we treasure our birding visits to national wildlife refuges locally and nationally. Of the 26 refuges in New England, 11 are in Massachusetts, including Parker River, Monomoy, Great Meadows, Oxbow, and Assabet River. In buying a duck stamp, we contribute to the purchase or leasing of newly protected lands.

Go to our web site, www.brooklinebirdclub.org, for details.

FAMILY MEMBERSHIP AVAILABLE

Family membership is available. It entitles all members of a household to member benefits, including discounted costs for pelagic trips and workshops. It costs $22 per year and comes with one family copy of the club bulletin. Look for the new family category on the Membership Renewal cards and on the form in the back of the bulletin and on the BBC website.

IT'S MEMBERSHIP RENEWAL TIME! RENEW OR JOIN VIA PAYPAL

You can join or renew your membership in the BBC by credit card or debit card via PayPal. If you choose to do so, go to www.brooklinebirdclub.org and click on “Join” in the top bar. Fill in the form and then choose Credit Card or Debit Card. Or, go directly to the membership form: www.brooklinebirdclub.org/p/join-bbc-html.

We will continue to process membership renewals by check as well.

We appreciate renewals by the end of December so that you will continue to receive meeting notices and blue books without interruption. Thank you for your membership support!

ALL-DAY PELAGIC TRIP

Register now for the November 14, 2015, pelagic trip to Nantucket Shoals and the NEW January 23, 2016, trip, also to Nantucket Shoals. See page 28 for details.

FIELD TRIP CANCELLATIONS

Field trips may be cancelled due to dangerous weather conditions or other emergencies. Cancellations will be posted on the web site (www.brooklinebirdclub.org), sent out via our Twitter feed (@bbcbirds), and posted to the Massbird listserv.

A fuel surcharge is possible. We have master birders Jeremiah Trimble, Nicholas Bonomo, and others leading these trips. Our boat, the Helen H, is a very comfortable, fast, 100-foot fishing boat with a knowledgeable and enthusiastic captain and crew. We use gallons of chum to attract the birds. There are 38 bunks aboard which will be available to the first 38 who sign up. There is a full galley with excellent food at reasonable prices. Parking is free.

To reserve a space, send a check for the full amount made out to Brookline Bird Club Agent along with a signed waiver to: Ida Giriunas, 83 Summer Ave., Reading, MA, 01867 and include either your email or your postal address for confirmation, boarding instructions, and other details. To register and to receive further information and a waiver form, contact Ida at 781-929-8772, ida8@verizon.net.

WE WANT YOUR INPUT

The Board of Directors wants to ensure it is discussing ideas and addressing questions important to the club. Members are encouraged to forward issues to the board via a club officer or board member. The board meets three times a year—late winter, late spring, and early fall—to discuss various items related to club functions. For contact information for officers and board members, please see the front pages of the bulletin.

WEBSITE ACCESS TO TRIP LIST

As a convenience to members, we publish the schedule of club trips on the BBC website www.brooklinebirdclub.org. We do not list the limited-participation trips, however, so continue to check for them here in the hardcopy bulletin.

BBC MEMBER DISCOUNT

Steve Grinley, of Bird Watcher's Supply and Gift, is offering current BBC members a 10% discount on all books and ABA guides as well as substantial discounts on binoculars, spotting scopes, and tripods. Bring in your current BBC Blue Book to the store located on the Route 1 traffic circle in Newburyport. For more information, phone Steve at 978-462-0775 or toll-free at 877-289-2974.

BIRD CONSERVATION

The BBC encourages a commitment to bird conservation and participation in activities and organizations that promote conservation through collection of data, monitoring of populations, preservation of habitat, protection of at-risk species, political action, and education. Check our website for a list of conservation activities, resources, and organizations for birders.

ADDITIONAL OUT-OF-STATE TRIPS

The following birding tours are led by tour leaders who are long-term members of the BBC. Many of these tours are popular with club members and are listed for your convenience. The BBC does not sponsor nor is it responsible for any matter relating to these tours.

Don Wilkinson will be leading the following out-of-state trips in 2016:

Winter in New England (geared towards out-of-staters), January 6–11

South Texas, March 4–11

South Florida and the Dry Tortugas, April 20–27

Himalayan Snowcock in Nevada and Utah, July 13–18

All trips will be on the website.

2014 STATISTICAL AND YEAR-END REPORT

By Robert H. Stymeist, Statistician

During 2014, the Brookline Bird Club listed 301 species of birds on 218 reported trips. A total of 259 trips were scheduled, 16 trips were cancelled by weather, and 27 trips unfortunately went unreported which is more than 10% of the trips scheduled. In Massachusetts the club listed a total of 290 species. The additional 11 birds seen out of state were Ring-necked Pheasant and Bicknell's Thrush in Vermont, Spruce Grouse, Northern Goshawk, Northern Saw-whet Owl, Atlantic Puffin, Arctic Tern, and Red Crossbill from Maine, and Black-backed Woodpecker, Gray Jay, and Boreal Chickadee from both Vermont and Maine. Overall 2014 was about average in terms of the number of trips scheduled and a little less in the number of birds reported. In comparison last year the club celebrated its 100th year anniversary with an all-out effort for a big year; a total of 298 trips were scheduled with 19 impromptu trips added in search of rarities for a total of 317 trips, ironically the same number of species recorded in Massachusetts during 2013. In 2014 there were 45 all-day, 148 morning, 15 afternoon or evening, six pelagic, and four weekend trips. There were two impromptu trips organized, one to Cuttyhunk Island and one overnight pelagic.

One new species, Red-billed Tropicbird, was added to the overall Brookline Bird Club list of birds. This sighting on the August Hydrographer Canyon trip was just the sixth record for Massachusetts. The club recorded only its second Fork-tailed Flycatcher on May 14 at Mount Auburn Cemetery; the only other record was on Bill Drummond's 1994 big May Day trip when he extended his Plum Island trip to Kittery Point, Maine. Some of the more unusual species noted in 2014 included Ross's Goose and Cackling Goose in Ipswich, a Tri-colored Heron, a Gull-billed Tern and a Summer Tanager all from Plum Island, and from the extreme pelagic trips, besides the tropicbird the only sightings of White-faced, Leach's and Band-rumped Storm-Petrels, Audubon's Shearwater, and South Polar Skua.

The club visited Essex County most often, with a total of 74 trips (39 to Newburyport and Plum Island area, 26 to Cape Ann, and trips to Marblehead Neck Wildlife Sanctuary, three trips to Ipswich, three to Nahant, and visits to Boxford, Manchester, and Topsfield). The trips in Essex County accounted for 224 species, which is 77% of all the birds reported on club trips. Mount Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge was second with 35 trips totaling 110 species including 24 species of warblers. There were 27 trips scheduled in the metropolitan Boston area. Twenty-eight trips to Cape Cod and the South Shore recorded 214 species. There were 15 trips in the Sudbury River Valley area, which includes Great Meadows NWR, Oxbow NWR, and the Assabet NWR and ten trips to areas in both central and western Massachusetts. There were seven pelagic trips scheduled for a combined total of 71 species including ten species that were not found anywhere else but on the high seas.

Out-of-state trips included weekend trips to the Machias area and to the Rangeley Lakes region in Maine, and a weekend trip criss-crossing the Northeast Kingdom of Vermont. The combined total number of species on the Maine trips was 149 and included some boreal birds such as Spruce Grouse, Black-backed Woodpecker, Gray Jay, and Boreal Chickadee. Ida Girunas led her 31st annual club trip to the Machias area, which includes the famous Machias Seal Island and recorded over 2,000 Atlantic Puffins! Ida and Eddie Giles have been leading these great trips for many years affording club members the opportunity to see some northern forest and ocean birds that don't nest in Massachusetts. A weekend trip to the Northeast Kingdom of Vermont was new this year after a hiatus of 29 years (for several years up until 1985 John Kennedy led our members to the famous Moose Bog). This year we recorded 108 species including the club's only Bicknell's Thrush and Ring-necked Pheasants. The Vermont trip logged in 18 different warblers, several Yellow-bellied Flycatchers, and great looks at a close moose. There was just one trip scheduled in New Hampshire. On November 2 Steve and Jane Mirick led their annual late fall trip along the coast. Though the weather was miserable they found a very late Laughing Gull among the 38 species that day. Missing from the club list of routinely seen species in 2014 were Cattle Egret, Yellow-crowned Night-Heron, Black Vulture, Marbled Godwit, Stilt Sandpiper, Wilson's Phalarope, Common Nighthawk, Connecticut and Cerulean Warblers, Dickcissel and Seaside Sparrow. Five other species, Ring-necked Pheasant, Northern Goshawk, Northern Saw-whet Owl, Arctic Tern, and Red Crossbill were not seen on any Massachusetts trip but were noted from Vermont and Maine.

Highlights from the 2014 Brookline Bird Club Year

Laura de la Flor and Mark Burns as always kicked off 2014 by leading their 18th annual January 1 birding trip. Thirty-five members bundled up for a cold New Year's Day of birding; after a welcoming toast of sparkling apple cider the group got down to birding and tallied a nice list of 62 species to start off the year. A Ross's Goose that was discovered in Ipswich on Christmas Day 2013 was the club's first target. Lucky for us the goose was not seen after the New Year. Other highlights included a Cackling Goose, a Black-headed Gull, eight Snowy Owls, and an adult Red-headed Woodpecker. January 2014 was the coldest in ten years with several big snowstorms, yet our club leaders recorded 88 species by the end of the month! The annual Owl Prowl was a victim of the snow and had to be cancelled as well as four other scheduled trips.

On February 9, Glenn d'Entremont led a trip throughout the south shore starting in Scituate with snow falling; they ended up in Middleboro with a total of 77 species. Highlights included a drake Barrow's Goldeneye, three Snowy and five Short-eared owls, and 13 Eastern Meadowlarks. In March the club scheduled Woodcock walks in Stoughton, Reading, and in the Blue Hills as well as the annual Massachusetts Waterfowl Prowl, this year just on Cape Cod.

The 2014 winter meeting of the club was on Friday, February 28, at the Bedford Middle School. Nearly 200 members packed the school auditorium to hear Norman Smith talk about his research on Snowy and Saw-whet Owls. Prior to that Shawn Carey presented his latest documentary on migrating shorebirds. After the talk Norman walked around the audience with a Snowy Owl. The spring meeting at the Harvard Museum of Natural History on April 11 featured our own Neil Hayward, who presented a fascinating and humorous account of his "Accidental Big Year"; Neil tallied an amazing 750 year birds during 2013. The guest speaker at the fall lecture meeting at Harvard on October 24 was Andrew Vitz, the Massachusetts State Ornithologist, who discussed bird conservation in the state focusing on Bald Eagles, Peregrine Falcons, and Piping Plovers.

Seven pelagic trips recorded 71 species; the extreme pelagic trips are the most exciting. The July trip recorded eight Band- rumped Storm-Petrels and a small shearwater that may have been Barolo's but the photos proved inconclusive. The August trip logged in 100 Audubon's Shearwaters, the highest number for any effort in Massachusetts, and the first club record of Red-billed Tropicbird. To top it off the group enjoyed excellent looks at a Whale Shark and a Tiger Shark. The November trip to Nantucket Shoals witnessed an estimated 100,000 Long-tailed Ducks and 60,000 Common Eider feeding in the rips off Monomoy.

Summer trips were highlighted by evening trips to Plum Island searching for early migrating shorebirds and flocks of herons flying to roost. On July 14 on Plum the club recorded the only American Avocet, and other noteworthy shorebirds included a Baird's Sandpiper and the only Hudsonian Godwit on August 21. A Gull-billed Tern was found on Jonathan Center's Plum Island trip on August 30. Labor Day Weekend is the traditional time for Buff-breasted Sandpiper and Long-billed Dowitcher. The club recorded the Buffy but dipped on the dowitcher.

The fall migration started off with a two-day Cape Cod Blitz hitting the hot spots on the outer Cape from Wellfleet to Provincetown. A total of 103 species were seen including six Philadelphia Vireos, a Yellow-bellied Flycatcher, and "thousands" of seabirds noted offshore. New this year was a Wednesday morning survey of Danehy Park in Cambridge led by Karsten Hartel and co-sponsored with the Menotomy Bird Club; they listed the only Nelson's Sparrow of the year. October brings the sparrows and frequent visits to community gardens in Wayland and Newton as well as Cumberland Farms and Bolton Flats.

November and December found our members visiting Cape Ann with six trips and six trips to the Plum Island and Newburyport area. On November 8, Ida had a bright and beautiful day with the first Snowy Owl of the season, as well as a Barred Owl and Rough-legged Hawks.

At the end of the year the club suspends scheduled trips so that our members can participate in the Christmas Bird Counts (CBCs). There are 34 count circles in Massachusetts.

A total of 62 leaders guided our members around the state throughout the year. All of our dedicated leaders deserve a special thank-you including several leaders that deserve recognition for not only many years of leading but the number of trips each year they lead. Ida Giriunas and Glenn d'Entremont tied for the most with 20 trips, followed by Linda Ferrareso with 14, then Jonathan Center and Eddie Giles with 12. Bill Drummond, Bob Petersen, and Peter Van Demark each led 10 trips. Another 11 dedicated leaders accounted for six or more trips each.

The biggest trip list this year was Glenn d'Entremont's South Shore Century Run, recording 121 species on May 10. This trip, entirely within Plymouth County, recorded the club's only Worm-eating Warbler and Vesper Sparrows for 2014.

In the following table you can see which trip in each month recorded the most species; this may help in planning for a big year of birding.

Date	Location	Count	Leader
January 1	Essex County	62 species	Laura de la Flor
February 9	Scituate-Plymouth	77 species	Glenn d'Entremont
March 16	Waterfowl Prowl	44 species	Eddie Giles
April 27	Suffolk County	76 species	Bob Stymeist
May 10	South Shore Century Run	121 species	Glenn d'Entremont
June 21	Mt. Greylock area	72 species	Glenn d'Entremont
July 26	Plymouth Beach	49 species	Glenn d'Entremont
August 21	Plum Island	60 species	Bill Drummond
September 13	Wellfleet	87 species	Bob Stymeist
October 4	Outer Cape Cod	87 species	Glenn d'Entremont
November 5	Boston	51 species	Bob Stymeist
December 17	Cape Ann	40 species	Neil Hayward

According to ebird, a total of 369 species were observed and reported by birders across the state during 2014; the Brookline Bird Club recorded nearly 79% of that total—pretty impressive! No new birds were added to the official state list, but some highlights included just the second record of Pacific Golden Plover, the third record of Common Ringed Plover, and the fourth record of Cassin's Kingbird.

Weather-wise 2014 was the warmest year worldwide on record. Ironically, of the large inhabited land areas, only the eastern half of the United States recorded below-average temperatures in 2014, a mirror image of the unusual heat in the west. January and February saw record snowfall, nearly 45 inches in Boston alone. March continued with cold temperatures. In the first week of spring Cape Cod was hit with a blizzard with gusts reaching 83 m.p.h. on Nantucket, which also recorded the most March snowfall ever with 9.5 inches! April finally saw some warm temperatures and May was nearly perfect for birding—no extreme heat, good southwest winds, and little rain. June was a great month for breeding birds with no cold spells and very little rain. July saw the first hurricane of the season when Arthur had winds of over 80 m.p.h. September and October saw several powerful thunderstorms including a nor'easter in late October that caused a great deal of coastal damage. November brought us the first major snowstorm with some areas receiving up to 16 inches the day before Thanksgiving. December was warmer than average and most Christmas Bird Counts experienced good weather.

AMERICAN KESTREL NESTING BOX PROGRAM

The American Kestrel is our smallest and certainly most colorful falcon. Found throughout North America, this valuable insect and rodent predator was formerly quite common. Numbers have declined significantly throughout the U.S. over the past decade, however. A shortage of nest sites is believed to be a major reason. The kestrel is our only hawk that nests primarily in tree cavities, such as old woodpecker holes. The felling of mature trees for firewood and construction has destroyed suitable sites in otherwise excellent habitat, producing a severe “housing” shortage.

The kestrel is a hawk of open country, preferring farmlands, meadows, and abandoned fields. It has also adjusted well to urban and suburban life, nesting in mature trees along highways and feeding along right of ways and parkland. New England has ample habitat to maintain a sizable kestrel population. What New England lacks is adequate nest sites. Fortunately, the kestrel will nest in artificial “holes”—nest boxes.

The Brookline Bird Club is sponsoring an American Kestrel nesting box program. The club provides complete information on how to build and place boxes and it has appropriated funds to help pay for construction materials. If you are interested in building kestrel boxes, or know of any organization that might be, please contact:

Paul can provide complete construction directions as well as information on funding. Additional information on American Kestrels and nesting box programs is also available. If you don't have the time to build boxes but know of good locations for nesting boxes, please give Paul a call. Some volunteers plan to build additional boxes for distribution, so the club may be able to provide you with a ready-made box to place.

BROOKLINE BIRD CLUB PINS

The pins are gold and black with safety clasp.

Brookline Bird Club pins are now available. Buy them at the Bird Watcher's Supply and Gift at the Route One traffic circle in Newburyport, or send $5 plus $1 for mailing, each to:

Ms. Laura McCoy, 1021 Shawsheen St.
Tewksbury, MA 01876

You get one car window decal free with membership, but if you need another, just send $1.00 and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Laura.

Bird Observer

The Birding Journal for Massachusetts

Have you looked at Bird Observer lately? We have a new look, with new features, expanded coverage, and more art!

Read about birding spots, natural history, field notes, regional rarities, and sighting records for the entire state.

If birding in Massachusetts is really important to you, you cannot afford to miss Bird Observer. It will become your most important birding tool after your binoculars.

Subscriptions are $25 for one year or $48 for two years in the U.S. New subscribers who are BBC members qualify for a free copy of the current issue.
